Year Trial Given 'Publication Board' Results Vital To Students Voice

By GENE GRUBA, STATESMAN EDITOR

On Friday, October 26 the student body of UMD will elect five student representatives to the board of the new Duluth Campus Publications Association. This election is particularly significant because it is, in effect the first opportunity for the students of this campus to participate in a function that previously has been the sole responsibility of the University Relations Committee, an all-faculty group. The new organization will be composed of five elected members of the student body and four faculty members.

This new plan was recommended to Provost Raymond Darland for his approval by the above mentioned faculty committee. This followed a period in which the URC and additional sub-committees with student representation had studied the move. In his letter of October 17 to the committee's chairman, Dr. Harold L. Hayes regarding the "Pub Board," Dr. Darland stated:

"This is to inform you that I am giving administrative approval to the proposed constitution for the 1956-57 academic year, with the provision that the University Public Relations Committee will review the proposal prior to spring elections. I will follow the recommendation of the committee next spring regarding the form and method of presentation to the faculty."

The primary importance of this new board lies in the first

15 Jr. Achievement Companies Open To UMD Frosh And Soph

Freshmen and sophomores interested in gaining practical pre-business experience will have the opportunity next week to organize and operate a small-scale business. Fifteen Junior Achievement companies will meet one evening a week until May at the Junior Achievement Center, 505 West Superior Street. Company members will elect officers, sell stock, keep books, buy raw materials, make a product, sell it, and perform the other necessary functions. Applications are available in the Offices of the Student Personnel Services.

Junior Achievement is an educational, nation-wide, and non-profit "Learn by Doing" program financed by local business and industry voluntary contributions. Each small company will have three volunteer advisors from Duluth business firms who will guide these youths between the ages of 15 and 21, in the operation of these miniature businesses. The companies render this opportunity to apply the principles learned in economics courses to an actual situation. In these situations, terms such as profit and loss, market research, and profit margin will be met face to face.

Ojakangas Reports

UMD's CSO Is Nationally Unique

UMD's Congress of Student Organizations is unique. There doesn't seem to be another organization like it in this country," commented CSO president Denny Ojakangas after attending last summer's National Student Congress. "Many other schools have expressed a deep interest in this type of organization and have asked for copies of our CSO constitution," added Denny.

The Congress of Student Organizations (CSO) is the UMD organization whose membership is composed completely of student clubs on campus. All campus organizations not directly represented in the student commission are required to belong to the CSO.

Besides serving as the coordinating agency for UMD organizations, the CSO also represents the media through which campus organizations are represented on the student commission. The CSO president, who is elected by the member organizations is a permanent member of the student commission.

Assisting the president in his duties are four vice-presidents who are also elected by the member organizations. Jim Johnson holds the position of vice-president for Organization Programs and Development, Ken Caye heads Officer Training, Kathy Anderson is in charge of Social Service, and Walt Musolf is vice-president of Rules.

Each vice-president has charge of carrying out a full program within his particular area. This fall, the first quarter in which the CSO has been a constitutionally active body, numerous programs have already been initiated.

Formation of the Young Republicans and Young Democrats clubs has been a direct result of such programming. Plans are also being made to revive

Religion-in-Life Week Theme - - -

'Your God Is Too Small'

"Your God is Too Small" will be the theme discussed at various convocations, informal coffee hours and dinners during Religion-in-Life week, Oct. 23-25.

Campus guest will be Reverend Neal A. Kuyper. He is a graduate of Central College at Iowa, and Princeton Theological Seminary at New Jersey. For the past three years, he has been the Protestant Chaplain of St. Cloud Reformatory. Mr. Kuyper's background includes special training at the Federal Reformatory in Ohio, and the Mental Hospital in California. At present, he is a member of the Board of Directors for the Westminster Foundation and is also the Moderator of the St. Cloud Presbytery.

"Back in Focus with God" will be the topic of Reverend Kuyper's talk at the convocation on Tuesday. It will be held in the Kirby Student Center Ballroom at 10:30. Following this, a noon luncheon will be held for pastors, faculty and students in Room 252 of the cafeteria. For those who are interested, there will be a coffee hour with informal discussion under the leadership of Reverend Kuyper. IVCF, UYF, and Hillel are the hosts of this discussion which will take place in the Music Lounge of the Student Center at 3:00. From 3:30 to 7:30 a Retreat and Discussion led by Father Alfred Wagner will go on at Our Lady of the Rosary. The Religious Council, advisors and planning committees will have dinner with Neal Kuyper that evening in the Cafeteria at 5:30.

Mr. Pearson's sociology class will be paid a visit by Reverend Kuyper at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning. Following this there will be another luncheon in the cafeteria, room 252, for the guest, faculty and students. The music lounge will again be the setting for a coffee hour with the host clubs being LSA, UMD "Y", and Canterbury. Father Alfred Wagner will have a retreat and discussion from 3:30 to 7:30 at Our Lady of the Rosary. At 5:30 a Fraternity and Sorority Dinner is planned at the Student Center Cafeteria. Hosts will be Beta Phi Kappa and Sigma Phi Kappa.

"The Search for God—Telescopic or Microscopic" will be the theme of Reverend Kuyper's talk at the 11:00 convocation on Thursday. He will speak in the Main auditorium. At 12:30 a luncheon will be served for Rev. Kuyper in the cafeteria at the Student Center. A coke hour for students and informal discussion with Neal Kuyper will again take place in the music lounge. Exams Announced For Ed Graduates

The National Teacher Examinations, prepared and administered annually by Educational Testing Service, will be given at 200 testing centers throughout the United States on Saturday, February 9, 1957.

At the one-day testing session a candidate may take the Common Examinations, which include tests in Professional Information, General Culture, English Expression, and Non-verbal Reasoning; and one or two of eleven Optional Examinations designed to demonstrate mastery of subject matter to be taught. The college which a candidate is attending or the school system which he is seeking employment, will advise him whether he should take the National Teacher Examinations and which of the Optional Examinations to select.

A Bulletin of Information containing sample test questions may be obtained from college officials, or directly from the National Teacher Examinations, 20 Nassau Street, Princeton, New Jersey.

'56 Enrollment Up By 198 Prospects Good For 'Mrs.'

The 1956-57 UMD school year looks bright for co-eds seeking their Mrs. degrees. Havard Archard, Director of Admissions, announced this week that enrollment took an encouraging, expected jump from last year, and that the male population jumped with it.

Some 2,123 students are attending UMD this quarter, as some students may have already noted in their large classes. Last year's total enrollment reached 1,925 — a jump of 198. Archard pointed out that there are 20 graduate students in our midst who are not officially a part of UMD, but from the "Southern Branch" graduate school.

Another consideration has to be made, Archard said. Some Freshmen drop out before Winter Quarter begins. Last year there were 814 frosh registered for Fall Quarter. Of that number, 126 dropped out for various reasons. BUT, another 70 new Freshmen registered for Winter quarter last year, bringing the enrollment back up to 1,869.

Archard expects enrollment to reach 3,000 by about 1960 if UMD's student population continues to increase at a constant rate of about 200 students per year. Indications are that the average yearly enrollment may even exceed that estimate.

Now, of interest to you Mrs. majors: the pickings are good.

There are 597 of you gals and 1,490 male students. Statistically, that gives each girl two and one half men to work with, the ratio being about 2.5/1 in your favor. And little doubt arises over all those halves.

Men, you have a problem, as if you don't already know. You have less than a half a gal apiece. If you have your eye on some particular lovely, just remember, competition is tough. There is probably another man and a half with the same idea.

Words Without Music

JUST THINKING: Waitresses are the most independent women we know . . . With most of the men we have known, wedding rings have been like tourniquets, stopping their circulation . . . Ladies in slacks should never turn their backs.

WE HEAR there is a cement salesman's son, a Pre-Med student, attending UMD, who had to be taught hardening of the arteries is not a highway project.

WHAT WITH THE way the weather has been behaving at all the UMD home football games to date, and in keeping with the wishes to change the school athletic name from Bulldogs to something more appropriate, why not change it to—no, not Mudhens—but rather, Raindeer?

EXCLUSIVE! SCOOPING the sports department . . . We ran into Jack McKillop the other day, and inasmuch as Jack is the basketball captain, the subject of our short conversation, naturally, was basketball. Of course, we had a few questions to fire at Jack concerning UMD and the not-too-distant season. We now bring you this exclusive interview:

Question: Well, Jack, how do you rate UMD's chances on the court this coming season?

McKillop: (After lengthy deliberation) "Mighty good."

Question: What team would you consider to be the favorite in conference play this season, that is, the team to beat?

McKillop: (Without hesitation) "The team on top."

Question: Being more specific, how do you think UMD will stack up in conference play this season as compared to last season?

McKillop: "Better than last year." He then amended this statement to "LOTS better than last year."

All of which, coming from a perhaps overly modest Mr. McKillop leads us to believe that this coming season will be the most successful UMD has experienced in her short MIAC career.

MORE ABOUT ELVIS: Another rumor has sprung up, this one being to the effect that the hi-fi room at KSC has somehow gained possession of an album of Presley's records. We sincerely hope this is not true. However, it would make, we admit, excellent mood music for an hour or so of gazing in rapture at that (Ugh) mural adorning the room's wall.

PROVING THAT this column is read: Someone just told us we should forget about writing words and try our hand at music.

Gamma Seeks Campus And Community Respect

by NEIL LANDRY

The fraternity or sorority on campus is an important social unit and sometimes, a highly controversial one. In view of this the STATESMAN begins in this number a series on the social fraternities and sororities on the UMD scene.

With a mind to clearing the air of the misunderstandings and apprehensions of those who are unfamiliar with the role of these organizations, these articles will attempt to present the facts about the six fraternities and sororities of UMD.

Gamma Theta Phi is the oldest fraternity at UMD. In the fall of 1949 three resident students, James Dow, Paul Johnson and Bill Smith, feeling need of a society of a solid character, associated themselves as the Gamma Theta Phi. They submitted their formal constitution to the student council that same winter, and on February 1, 1950, Gamma was officially recognized.

The fraternity is primarily a social organization, with its chief benefits accruing to the members of Gamma, but it also applies itself to worthwhile projects on campus and in the community.

The fraternity's annual "Petey" drive is one example of its service to the community. The Gamma's "pass the hat," so to speak, among their fellow students and the proceeds of the drive go to the Community Chest agency for the benefit of crippled children.

On campus, Gamma sponsors the annual Commencement dance in the spring. The dance is an attempt to honor the graduating seniors and to mark the student body's respect for them.

Within the fraternity itself,, the members engage in interfraternity sports, such as football and baseball, and in a variety of other social functions ranging from picnics to pizza parties.

Gamma also maintains its own Hall of Fame, each year electing one member who has distinguished himself by his service to the fraternity. The members of the Gamma Theta Phi Hall of Fame through 1956-57 are Bill Smith, Paul Smith, Paul Johnson, Thomas Sermon, Bruce Halvorson, Richard Beckman and Kenneth Kulus, in the order of their election.

These projects indicate something of the aim of Gamma; that is, to make the fraternity a solid, respected member of the community and the UMD campus.

In this school year of 1956-57, the officers of Gamma are: John De Santo, president; Fred Burnes, secretary; Tom Lee, social chairman; Gordy Nelson, historian; Leroy Matchett, sergeant-at-arms; and Paul Butler, disciplinary chairman.

October 23 to 25 has been designated "Religion-in-Life Week" and there are some who will say, "So what!" Unfortunately, those who will make that observation, the individuals not belonging to a campus religious group, will be correct as far as they are concerned. The named purpose of this week is "to stimulate the thinking of students in the spiritual realm." Question: WHO?

If it is the purpose of the sponsoring organizations to schedule their agenda to stimulate themselves, they may succeed. But as they are Christians for the most part, and following the teachings of Christ, they should be interested in achieving broader results. Christ achieved broad results, but because he was not narrow in method or philosophy.

In campus vernacular, Christ was no square. He turned water into wine. Not because He approved of drinking, but because He knew that human beings will always be human beings. And think for a minute how much His miracles assisted the preservation of His memory. You may hesitate to agree, but in terms of New York's Madison Avenue, His miracles may be considered in the light of product promotion. And why not, for His was, and still is the world's greatest product.

Returning to the campus advocates of Christ. They have no miracles, but they claim "Fun through Fellowship." In a sense, this is a miracle, because it's true that the most fun is not found in a barroom. But do they take advantage of it? No! They want to recruit, but it has to be their way or not at all. Christ compensated. It took quite a spell to convince Peter and He was willing to wait.

Christ was patient and tolerant and not narrow. You can't expect to recruit the troop en masse by suddenly pulling them into a "prayer meeting." If you could put Christ before them for three days, yes. But you have only a mere man. Maybe a great man, but only a man.

If Christ could come down from the heavens, you can get your heads out of the clouds long enough to see that your feet belong on the ground. "Seek and ye shall find." But it doesn't say that you have to look in just one direction. Show them that you tolerate them by sponsoring and inviting these outsiders to a function with which they are more familiar.

Supposedly, "Religion-in-Life Week" is for everybody. But religion is a living thing, and must not only grow in numbers, but in scope. "Religion-in-Life Week" is not just for you. Its purpose is to stimulate everyone and yet you've scheduled it to suit your own specific tastes. This is neither charitable, nor intelligent.

Reviewer Finds 'War and Peace' Powerful; Lauds Hepburn, Fonda

Not since Gone With the Wind has a movie carried the smashing impact of War and Peace. This is the Hollywood version of the best-selling novel by Leo Tolstoy, and one of the very few movies which has captured the power and passion of a great book.

Early nineteenth century Russia provides the setting and the basis for the plot is built around the conquest's of Napoleon Bonaparte. From a historical point of view, this movie gives quite a detailed study of Russian history and customs.

Vivacious Audrey Hepburn, as the beautiful young girl Nitasha, gives a thrilling performance, by far her best yet. She seems to add a new depth to her character in this movie, which adds greatly to the emotional impact of the plot.

Henry Fonda is brilliantly cast as a wealthy duke who searches to find the answers to man's deepest questions. Mel Ferrer as Andre is also outstanding in his role as a military hero and the man Nitasha loves.

This production is in direct revolt against the recent run-of-the-mill Hollywood trash to which we've become accustomed, and is definitely recommended entertainment.

The Pickwick Papers

By Gene Gruba

While John Arthur Hill is off musing with the Icelanders we thought that we would resurrect the "Papers" to plug up the hole temporarily vacated by his "And Now". So at the last minute "And Now To Muse" comes in special delivery. Since we stayed up all night putting the "Papers" to bed we'll print it anyway. So, Yippee aye o' ki aye, you all! And we're off to nowhere.

LITERARY DEPARTMENT: We should like to submit a poem for your disapproval. Granted, it may not be Humanist caliber, but it does make darn good STATESMAN filler.

With all due respect to poetry lovers everywhere:

I Love . . . But Who?
"I love — but who?"
The old dog sighed—
and rolled over,
and layed there—
Died!
"I love — but who?"
The old horse said—
kicked up his heels, and stayed there—
Dead!
"I love — but who?"
I could not see—clapped my hands, and I knew—Me!

With the permission of Mr. Doug Rapp, a comment: After being an editor for over a month now we can readily understand why Zenger, Franklin and Pulitzer are dead.

ON ELVIS PRESLEY: It has been said that he is the reincarnation of that young fellow who met with such an untimely demise on Highway 101. Supposedly, the theory of reincarnation implies that one is either (pronounced i-ther) promoted or demoted according to his previous actions. Gracious and for pity sake!

Walter Musolf on all-night disc-jockies: "What a crazy mixed up lot. Sleeping all day and then staying up all night just to hear themselves talk."

But then, just think of the people that are crazy enough to give them money for it.

This summer we spent a part of in Montana. (And especially after all of those hours we spent in Freshman Composition class) Consequently, this true, but only slightly colored tale:

On our first visit to the west we went for a horse-back-ride with a 15 year-old native Montanian, name of Jerry. After an hour's ride we became quite thirsty and suggested that we stop for a drink. Jerry informed me that the only place for miles would be the river we were approaching and that we would stop there and drink.

Drinking from anything but a faucet, fountain or some other form of manufactured container was a wee bit foreign to us, but then so was a hot ride over the open range. "After all, this is the west and we're darn thirsty," we thought. We agreed that the river was an excellent idea.

After we had our drink we were riding by a ranch on the river when we noticed a structure extending over the water. We inquired if it was a dock or diving board?

Jerry looked at me rather puzzled for a moment and then replied. "Nope, the river's too shallow for boats or diving . . . that's their sewage outlet."

"Sewage outlet!" We exclaimed. "But we were just drinking out of that river!"

"Yup," he nonchalantly quipped, "I know."

And now, 12:45 and the inkwell is dry . . . Spring's sprung, fall's fell, winter's here and it's colder than . . . but this here paper's editor don't allow that kinda language . . . Bedtime, so thir-ry.

Grad School Exam Offered Again

The Graduate Record Examinations, required of applicants for admission to a number of graduate schools, will be administered at examination centers throughout the country four times in the coming year, Educational Testing Service has announced. During 1955-56 more than 9,000 students took the GRE in partial fulfillment of admission requirements of graduate schools which prescribed it.

This fall candidates may take the GRE on Saturday, November 17. In 1957, the dates are January 19, April 27, and July 6. ETS advises each applicant to inquire of the graduate school of his choice which of the examinations he should take and on which dates. Applicants for graduate school fellowships should ordinarily take the designated examination in the fall administration.

The GRE tests offered in these nationwide programs include a test of general scholastic ability and advanced level tests of achievement in sixteen different subject matter fields. According to ETS, candidates are permitted to take the Aptitude Test and/or one of the Advanced Tests.

A Bulletin of Information, (in which an application is inserted) provides details of registration and administration as well as sample questions, may be obtained from college advisers or directly from Educational Testing Service, 20 Nassau Street, Princeton, New Jersey, or P. O. Box 27896, Los Angeles 27, California. A completed application must reach the ETS office at least fifteen days before the date of the administration for which the candidate is applying.

Theatre-in-the-round Finds Writer Running In Circles

By WALT MUSOLF

Preface—During the course of the last week, I arranged to do a feature story on the UMD Theatre presentation now in rehearsal. Talking with Dr. Hayes, I obtained permission to attend a rehearsal session, planning an "on-the-spot" interview with him concerning the complexities of producing a play "in the round".

Arriving for the interview, I encountered a bedlam of frenzied activity and had difficulty keeping Harold Hayes in my sight, let alone attempting to interview him. So, I stayed close to the wall of the gymnasium, slyly observing the antics of those about me. Waiting for the proper moment, I stole their script and hurried back to Washburn to write a play of my own.

Scene: The time is 8:30 p. m. The place is the gymnasium of Old Main. The room is brightly illuminated and a small cluster of people are grouped about a platform placed in the center of the room. We pause, a jumble of voices are heard and the strident bellow of Harold Hayes rises above the general noise.

H. H.—All right, all right. Let's settle down now, let's settle down. You people want to leave tonight? All right, let's go on this.

Taproom—We have put him to the merest thumbscrew, Tyson.

Courteously and impartially, the . . .

H. H.—(Waving arms frantically) Q4, Q4! YOU are supposed to be at Q4. All right.

Taproom—. . . the purest Cajolery to coax him to deny Those cock-and-bull murders. .

H. H. (Almost falling off platform) COULD you be quiet Taylor?

As most of you have heard, the UMD theatre is producing "The Lady's Not For Burning," a comedy in verse in three acts, written by Christopher Fry. The play will be presented October 31 through November 3. It will be staged "in the round," that is, with the audience seated on all sides of the playing area.

H. H.—(Bellowing) WHERE'S MARGARET, WHERE'S MARGARET?

A Voice—She went to see War and Peace . . . should be back by eleven.

H. H.—Dammit. (Paces rapidly across platform, thumbing through script) All right, I'll take it. (Reads part of Margaret)

I shall go and change my dress,

Then I shall . . . (Aside) Now pipe down Rapp!

Theater-in-the-round presents numerous problems for the director. The fact that all sides of the stage are constantly in the view of the audience calls for complex stage directions and movements. Hayes has tackled the problems by constructing a raised platform, or rather series of platforms, bounded by four ramps. The playing area is in three levels, accented by a bare minimum of props and scenery.

H. H.—All right. Humphrey is on Q1. Humphrey. HUMPHREY-

Humphrey—(Hesitantly) I'm sure he's mad.

H. H.—All right, feeling, use feeeling.

The actors enter and leave the playing area by means of the ramps, with most of the action of the play taking place upon the platform. The seating of the audience rules out the use of elaborate scenery, but allows the actors much more freedom of movement than on a conventional stage. The audience will be part of the play, using their imaginations to supply the setting for the actions of the players.

H. H.—All right, now take it from Tyson. You are at Q4, pause, then over to here.

Tyson—All right, all right, all right. Now why . . . (Aside to group: THAT'S where he picked up that wonderful phrase!)

Can't people mind their own . . .

H. H.—(Fists clenched, arm stretched upward) All . . . I mean . . . DAMMIT, stick to the script!

The play is extremely well written with exceptional wit and great verse. Being wonderful to begin with, staging the play "in the round" adds but another reason for not missing it. With an excellent cast and an interesting format, "The Lady's Not For Burning" should not be missed.

H. H.—Now Thomas, read it from the center.

Thomas—It really is Beyond the limit of . . .

Stepping quietly, we leave the scene, grope through the halls of Old Main, and wander off into the night. THE END

'56-57 Puck Prospects Promising, Says Coach

The 1956-57 chapter of the history of hockey at UMD was begun Monday, October 15, as 30 boys attended the first meeting of the season.

The meeting called by head coach Connie Pleban for the purpose of outlining some of the policies and highlights of the coming campaign.

Coach Pleban announced that a twelve game conference had been set up with an equal balance of non-conference opponents.

"The season should begin around November 21 and last until March," noted Pleban.

He continued by mentioning his newer coaching methods.

"We will play, if possible a five man offensive hockey—every man will have to be able to skate two ways; carry the puck on the offensive thrusts and be able to stop the opposition when they invade UMD territory."

During the meeting the practice schedule was handed out. Practices begin Monday, Oct. 22 at 4 p. m. at the curling club. Any person who was unable to attend the meeting but wishes to play varsity hockey, can pick up equipment this morning and be ready for Monday's practice.

Reorganized 'M' Club Enlists The Aid Of Eligible Members

Back in the spring of 1956 a serious problem faced the UMD 'M' club. The clubs membership at meetings had dwindled to a dozen or so, the treasury had a deficit and the possibility of dropping a lettermen's organization at UMD seemed apparent.

However at the final meeting of the year the few remaining members decided on a new course of action.

First in an attempt to put the club back on the campus map the constitution was re-written. Clauses to insure monthly meetings, clarify the purpose of the club and distinguish as to whom was officially a member and who was not were added.

At the final meeting of the spring quarter new officers were elected.

At once a new look captured the organization. Under the able direction of club president Ken Lundgren, efforts were made to establish the club on a sound footing. Lundgren, tackling the financial difficulties of the club erased the debt and brought about the first black readings in the ledger of the past two years.

As for membership; A clause in the constitution stated that all letterwinners were eligible for membership but only those attending the meetings and wishing to be a member were considered as part of the club. Missing two meetings without reason would exclude you from membership.

The following is a list of eligible M club members:

The club, in an effort to strengthen school spirit and unity, has enforced a policy of excluding all other school letters from the campus. President Lundgren pointed out that since the M is the only official letter on campus it should therefore be considered by the student body as the only letter award acceptable on the campus.

WAA Activities

By MARIETTA BROWER

The members of WAA were very pleased when the float they had jointly sponsored with PEMM's won first place in the Homecoming Parade. A lot of time and hard work went into the building of the float, and we would like to take this opportunity to thank the members of both organizations for their help; there are too many to be named individually. Vi Colich, freshman, was the Bulldog wielding the mace on the float, and sophomores Ann Pechacek and I still have headaches from the blows.

The Alumni Tea held last Saturday at the Phy Ed Building was very successful, with a large crowd in attendance. Many friendships were renewed by the Alumni, some of whom only see their old classmates at these annual events.

Attending the annual Playday held by the College of St. Scholastica will be WAA members from Hibbing J. C., Superior State Teacher's College and UMD. Registration of the students will take place between 9 and 9:30 at the Villa on Saturday, October 20th. Plans for the day include field hockey, bowling and volleyball. The members are asked to bring along their regular blue shorts and white blouses, tennis shoes, sweatshirts, and sweatpants which can be obtained from Mrs. Ziegler in the Phy Ed locker room. Transportation will be furnished, so sign up in the locker room.

Fencing and swimming are the activities scheduled for October 23 around 3:30 p. m., with volleyball games set for October 25.

UMD Bulldogs Brace For Augsburg Contest

That sea of mud which usually accompanies a football field which has been drenched for two quarters hinders the reading of the number of Bob Berquist, Macalester and his tackler UMD's Marv Heikkinen. The only other identifiable UMDite is Darrel Warner beside the referee.

Macalester Maced On Muddy Field

UMD's fighting gridiron warriors took to the mud Saturday to upset heavily favored Macalester 18-6 for their first victory of the season, after three losses. Recovered fumbles, tough line play, and some booming punts which kept the Macs on their heels turned the trick. The tilt which started during a heavy rain appeared to be taking a familiar pattern when after 5 minutes of play the Scot's Denny Tetu raced around right end for 60 yards and a Macalester score. A booming punt by Darrel 'Lefty' Warner that covered 47 yards after the Bulldogs had been unable to move the kickoff drove the Macs back to their five yard line. After a short gain Jerry Karau pounced on a fumble and Marv Heikkinen rolled over for the TD. Score—UMD 6 Macalester 6. In a determined bid to crush the Bulldogs the Macs began to roll picking up a pair of first downs and moving deep into UMD territory only to fumble and lose the pigskin. UMD sparked by this break needed only 10 plays to hit paydirt, quarterback Rau carrying for the score with one minute left in the first quarter and the Bulldogs led 12-6. It was during this touchdown drive that Warner began to sparkle. The Grand Rapids native picked up 62 yards in five plays during the race toward the goaline. With time running out in the first half the Bulldogs tallied again. An attempted punt was fumbled on the Macalester 14 yard line and UMD took over. An 11 yrd pass from Heikkinen to Warner and a pair of off tackle slants by Warner made the score 18-6 and ended the scoring for the game. Ignoring the script which called for them to fade in the second half the Bulldogs with help from the punts of Rau and Warner actually continued to outplay the Scots and even threatened to score again. The Bulldogs took the cry of 'Mace the Macs' to heart and gave the 500 fans who braved the elements a most pleasing victory.

Homecoming Victory Throws New Hope In Tomorrows Fray

By RON PROULX

The UMD Bulddogs, fresh from an 18-6 homecoming victory over Macalester last Saturday night—their first win of the season—take on fifth place Augsburg tomorrow night in Minneapolis. The UMDites are currently resting in sixth place, but a win over the Auggies would reverse the positions of the two teams. Coach Lloyd Peterson's men have been working hard all week, and should be a lot tougher now that they have broken into the victory column. Even with the win over the Scots, the Northern Branchers are still rated the underdog; but they were rated the underdog in last week's contest, too. Augsburg's lone victory of the season came over the winless Hamline Pipers by a score of 27-13, and last week, they virtually knocked St. Johns out of title contention by holding the latter to a 7-7 deadlock.

The win over Hamline and the tie with St. Johns show that the Auggies are no pushovers, and will be tough opponents for the Bulldogs to face. But if the Bulldogs can play as well against the Minneapolis group as they did against the boys from the capitol, keeping alive the spirit and determination they showed in the latter game, they shouldn't have much trouble handing the Auggies their third loss of the season.

and now to Muse

by John A. Hill

Most happy to be able to report to you on the progress of The Escorts: Denny Shryack, Frank Hempill, Nick Pappas, and Johnny Seily.

They're signed up with the Associated Booking Corporation, Agency (they have the Platters, Gaylords, Louis Armstrong, Bill Haley and many more . . . a real good outfit). Already the quartet has been approached by General Artists Corporation (the second biggest company in the U. S.) and the Music Corporation of America (the biggest).

After arriving in Chicago, they sang for a convention of agents at a big dinner . . . they were really shaking . . . needlessly . . . They received two encores and two curtain calls . . . and for a long time after that they were really on clouds. As a result of the good showing at the convention, club-dates followed . . . a tour was lined up for the upper midwest. This was postponed, however, in order to work every day with a staff-arranger for Mercury Recording Company, Chuck Sagle. He wrote "Church Bells May Ring", "Ka-Ding-Dong", and a few others for the Diamonds, and quite a few numbers for the Crew-Cuts; now he's writing orchestrations for all of The Escorts' tunes, arranging new ones for them, and will write the tune for their first record . . . which Jay thinks will be very soon, he's meeting with the "big-wigs" of Mercury and others now.

Right now . . . every night . . . seven nights a week, they are playing the Chez Paree, soon to be billed with Patti Page and later with Louis Armstrong, Nat "King" Cole and others. The owners of the Chez (there are four of them) seem to want to "father" the boys, and want them to be able to say, "Direct from a six month engagement at the Chez Paree."

So far, we are still on our way to Iceland . . . by the time you read this, we will have been there for a couple of days, but a dateline is a dateline. And speaking of dates, I saw that our Southern Branch has a professional dating service, which might be a good idea . . . yet, I guess that would sort of take the fun out of it.

'Pub Board'

student majority, removing the complete responsibility in the area of publications from the faculty. The fate of future delegation of power to the students by the administration may very well depend, in part on this new board's success throughout this trial year.

Unfortunately, due to the impatience of the move's advocates, the pressure applied to the administration and the haste of last year's Student Commission in approving the plan will have a handicap beginning. It is understandable that the Commission was desirous of student representation to the extent that they would back any move in this direction with abandon to structure. But their mistake in this instance was not unavoidable.

One of the arguments for the move was that the southern campus' publications operate under a similar structure. Apparently, the fact that that campus achieved this situation through gradual gains was not taken into consideration. Simply because the Minneapolis branch operates in a certain fashion is not reason for UMD to do the same. UMD and Minneapolis are two separate and individual situations.

The constitution for this board, even though approved is faulty. For example, the preamble states that one of the purposes of the board is to provide "an opportunity for students to obtain practical experience in the field of publications." Section three states: "The student members of the Board shall be elected from the student body at large" and no qualifications for these people are stipulated. According to article two, "This board alone shall have authority and responsibility within the framework . . . to establish and manage student publications . . . including power to (a) establish general policy, (b) exercise general supervision in business and editorial management."

But in this case, the board is the publisher, and the publisher should be in his position of authority because of his experience, and not there to gain experience. Section three provides that anyone, experienced or unexperienced, with or without good judgment can be elected and exercise the power provided under article two.

This situation is on trial. What is most important is this foothold, whether premature or not that the student body now has in this area of representation.

The structure and constitution of this new Duluth Campus Publications Association can be amended. If you are interested in the success of this venture your responsibility is to see that competent, responsible individuals are nominated and elected to the board. Because the success or failure of this effort will be decided by the results of the election of October 26.

What's Your Number Is It In The Book

The UMD Student and Faculty Address Book goes to press early next week, and many students haven't listed their telephone numbers and addresses.

Miss Harriet Harrison, student advisor, says publication of the address book will be held until next week in order for students to fill in their blanks and make corrections if they have moved since registration.

Miss Harrison pointed out that the complete address book is more necessary this year because this is the first year UMD hasn't had Post Office boxes.

Student Commission Finance Post Open To Business Major

UMD Student Commissioner Dick Miller, announced that the financial commissioner post on the Student Commission board is now vacant. The office was held by Don Johnson who resigned because of work obligations.

The new post will be filled by commission appointment. Anyone desiring to apply for the position can obtain an blank at KSC, room 120. The vacancy must be filled by a junior or senior B & E major.

Dick Miller states, "The Student Commission is in excellent condition this year with all commissioner posts in capable, cooperative and willing hands."

at 2 o'clock with Newman and Wesley acting as hosts. A big event of the week is the Fellowship Supper. Reverend Neal Kuyper will talk on "Seeing God at the Crossroad." The supper will begin at 6 o'clock at the Pilgrim Congregational church.

The purpose of Religion-in-Life week is to help students develop a new awareness of the part religion plays in their lives and to form a better conception of the importance of their lives in the world today. Its further purpose is to promote more interest and better understanding among students and faculty of the importance of their religion and religious values in higher education.

Under the guidance of general chairman Barbara Holmes and Religious council adviser Miss Harrison, committees have been planning for these events. Chairmen of various committees include: Donald Newton, scheduling coordinator; Elizabeth Gooder, convocations; Kay Tree, special events; Gary Cowan, discussion; Helen Edman, publicity; Sara Gowan, finance; Marjorie Carlson, fellowship banquet; Jeanette Darland, banquet tickets and Ray Leland, general arrangements.
